GENERAL GRESHAM ON POSTAL TELEGRAPHY.

The report of Postmaster-General Gresham on the postal telegraph proposition is a surprise to the country. It was thought he would make some positive recommendation. But he carefully refrains from doing so, though he sets forth an argument establishing the power of the Government to establish a postal telegraph, and completely refutes the position taken by Dr. Norvin Green on constitutional grounds. Perhaps General Gresham is wise politically in not committing the Administration, so far as his department is concerned, to any certain scheme. The Democracy has control in Congress, and upon it let the responsibility fall of responding to or refusing the demand of the people for transmission of postal intelligence by telegraph. The General sets forth in brief each of the several plans proposed, with acquisition of existing lines, and is held for speculation. Few persons who own considerable bodies of land attempt to make any real use of their possessions." Large land-holding, as an evil, however, has not any deep root in the north country, and therefore now is the propitious season for awakening public sentiment there against a system that threatens to fasten landlordism upon the people in a most obnoxious form, for it is far easier to prevent than to correct it. It will do more than any other agency we can conceive of to check the development of a country. What the Northwest needs is many homes and many people. Land monopoly is the direct antagonist of homes and population. More than this, all its enemies are to destroy the individual in dependence of the voter, and by erecting tenancy into a system, establish a servile class, bound not only to pay tribute to but to do the bidding of the landlord class, because personal interests, comfort and livelihood depend upon it.

LANDLORDISM AT THE NORTHWEST.

The Oregonian, published at Portland, a very able and observant journal, concludes, after reviewing the field, that "a very serious evil in Oregon and Washington Territory is large land holding. In some cases the land has been acquired simply through greed of land, and is held as a miser holds gold; in other cases it has been purchased at different times, and at low prices, and is held for speculation. Few persons who own considerable bodies of land attempt to make any real use of their possessions." Large land-holding, as an evil, however, has not any deep root in the north country, and therefore now is the propitious season for awakening public sentiment there against a system that threatens to fasten landlordism upon the people in a most obnoxious form, for it is far easier to prevent than to correct it. It will do more than any other agency we can conceive of to check the development of a country. What the Northwest needs is many homes and many people. Land monopoly is the direct antagonist of homes and population. More than this, all its enemies are to destroy the individual in dependence of the voter, and by erecting tenancy into a system, establish a servile class, bound not only to pay tribute to but to do the bidding of the landlord class, because personal interests, comfort and livelihood depend upon it.

THE MCGARRAHAN CLAIM.

It is said, though it seems scarcely possible of belief, that the McGarrahan claim will again come before Congress at the present session. Is it possible to kill off that infamy? It has been routed in the Courts; throttled in the Government Departments time after time; kicked out of Congress—and yet it lives. Is it possible to bring the matter to an end? Is there no finality to such proceedings and claims? Well may the New York Tribune exclaim that it is a case which has been settled so often that at last it begins to be doubtful if so much settlement has not unsettled it forever.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

We publish this morning a six-page edition of the RECORD-UNION, presenting the President's message in full, and synopsis, especially prepared, of the reports of the Secretary of War, Postmaster-General and Secretary of the Interior. These public documents will be found to be of more than usual interest, and to repay careful perusal and analysis.

The public will be astonished at the statement made at a meeting of the Academy of Sciences in St. Louis, December 4th, that the tick fever, which has been reported to prevail in diverse and many ways. Those who have interests there invariably draw it mild, while others, simply from the nature, or passing through the country, fall sick of the disease of the plague of the dreadfully ill. Four young men from Kansas City, Mo., left Hermelino a short time since for Mazatlan, where four sickened and died. The fifth, Privately, reached to Naples, Italy, where he had the plague. On Tuesday had the black vomit, and on Thursday died. He had a number of friends in Nogales, who gave him a respectable burial. He had been ill for three weeks, and he could have died even if he had reached Kansas City, his system was so saturated with the disease.

(For further Dispatches see Last Page.)

THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT is thus outspoken:

"Some of the tariff takers who are neither free traders nor protectionists have queer ideas. A few Eastern 'revenue reformers,' for instance, denounce the Hawaiian treaty, although that convention has done more proportionally to secure foreign markets for our manufacturers than any other experiment tried since the war."

Sam, I have lost my watch overboard. It lies here in twenty feet of water. Is there any way to get it?" "Yes," says Sam; "there are divers ways."

APPLICATION GRANTED—RUNAWAY MULES.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 4th.—The application for a writ of habeas corpus filed in the Probate Court by General Andrade for an award of $10,000, in furtherance of the colonization scheme in Mexico, organized by the Blythe estate of $10,000, was denied. The court held that large quantities of diseased meat were being daily distributed among consumers of Sacramento. A second says his investigation a year ago justified him in corroborating the charge, and a third lends force to the charge by relating an interview with a butcher who informed him that anyone eating mutton chops, since during or after dry seasons sheep were invariably rendered unfit for eat by parasites. Positively this is the case, since swine and hogs are mainly raised in the state.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

United States Senate.

WASHINGTON, December 4th.—In the Senate after the adjournment, with a committee from the House, to wait upon the President and inform him that both houses were organized and ready to receive any communication he may make.

Within they returned to the Senate, Sherman announced that the committee had performed their duty, and that the President, in reply, had requested that the members of the Senate and his behalf the committee men of the session and his congratulations on their organization, and say that he would immediately communicate in writing.

Within the day the message was received and read, and the Senate adjourned.

House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, December 4th.—In the House to-day the Speaker appointed as the Committee on Mileage, Woolton, Welborn, Gleason, Rainey, and Miller of Pennsylvania.

After drawing for seats, numerous bills were introduced and referred.

The President's Secretary appeared with the message, which was read and ordered printed, and the House adjourned.

Senate in the House.

WASHINGTON, December 4th.—After the organization of the House, the next most important business, preliminary to legislative work, is the assignment of seats to members.

The Senate, and the members who is obliged to take up his quarters in some remote part of the hall, where he can but imperfectly hear the proceedings at the Clerk's desk, and a large portion of the session is spent in a semi-circle, feels himself isolated. Speaks a few words, and party leaders tremble lest they may be set upon the outer rows, while younger aspirants for fame and distinction reply with "Hear me, hear me!"

The committee which has been directed by Major Whittle, of this city, some of his friends were asked to-day if his preaching was directed against the Catholic Church. They replied that it was not; that Mr. McCoy broke his wife's heart, and succeeded in knocking down his antagonist 110 times. In the 111th round, McCoy's neck got a hold of his, and he was knocked down.

McCoy was picked up and carried to his corner, but was completely used up, and wanted to stop fighting; but his friend spoke up in his defense. Moran knocked him on the head, and McCoy had to be carried to the train.

EATERS IN IRELAND.

CHICAGO, December 4th.—According to rioters in Westford, Ireland, who are here to represent their young people, who are being persecuted by Major Whittle, of this city, some of his friends were asked to-day if his preaching was directed against the Catholic Church.

They replied that it was not; that Mr. McCoy broke his wife's heart, and succeeded in knocking down his antagonist 110 times. In the 111th round, McCoy's neck got a hold of his, and he was knocked down.

EATERS AND THERE.

Miss Ella Wheeler is not supposed to know much about babies. But writing to Harpur's Young People, she says:

"The coming winter, if you have a baby, do not let it sleep in a cradle."

The old as well as the world is a bore,"

she writes. "Leave the cradle to the War Department."
